When I placed a ship I reduced all the places that would break the "no 2 ships nearby" rule.

I checked sum constraints and reviewed the available places to calculate capacity for each row and column. And based on it I chose places for my ships.

I also checked the maximum and minimum that can be placed in each row and column. If after placing a ship and applying constraints I saw that nothing can fit in column I failed the previous move.